NAVY MAY BE USED TO HUNT RUM RUNNERS

Harding Advised That This Is Only Course To Halt Bootlegging

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1923 By The Post Pub. Co.
Washington—The navy of the United States may be ordered into action soon against the rum runners on all coasts. President Harding has been advised that the only practicable course to stop bootlegging on the seas is to have the waters inside the three mile limit patrolled carefully by all the small craft of the American navy.

For the time being no effort will be made to tackle vessels flying foreign flags and lying outside the three mile limit but under a recent court decision, the prohibition authorities feel justified in pursuing any vessel flying any flag which comes within the three mile limit and then makes a dash for outside waters.

MAY ESTABLISH NEW LIMIT

Although the higher courts have not yet passed finally on the issue, prohibition officials point to the precedent established in Scandinavian countries where a twelve mile limit is observed by vessels chasing those engaged in smuggling. They have no doubt that the twelve mile limit will be upheld by the highest American courts and that it will have a distinct influence on the attitude of foreign governments. The prohibition enforcement contingent has deferred to the wishes of the department of state in recent months, refraining from any act which might cause international complications, by reason of which outside the three mile limit and the effect of this policy has been to give Secretary Hughes an opportunity to negotiate quietly with foreign governments so that their cooperation in preventing their own vessels from conspiring to violate American laws might be secured.

HARDING TAKES UP MATTER

President Harding has let it be known in the last 24 hours that the cabinet has discussed every phase of rum running and that the government is ready for important action soon to be taken. However, foreign governments will have to be advised of what is coming so that they may caution their nationals against engaging in conspiracies to violate American laws.

According to the prohibition enforcement contingent, the rum running has declined materially in the last few months, chiefly because of the disputes among the rum runners themselves, the growth of piracy among the adventurous skippers of rum running vessels and the huge cost of arranging for the transport of rum from the larger to the smaller vessels. The wireless is the principal medium of communication but the government is exercising not only a close watch on the radio apparatus of the rum runners but is keeping an eye on the small craft. It is admitted, however, that the rum runners have had much the better of it in evading the government patrol, especially in Florida waters but the use of the navy is expected to change that aspect materially. All the submarine chasers and light craft which have been sent to the coast will be manned by the navy and sent on the enforcement patrol. The administration has been hard pushed by the "drys" to take the drastic step and the drift today is toward complete and effective use of the sea forces of the government to uphold the Volstead act.

'Wholesale' Brides Must Face Judge

By Associated Press

St. Joseph, Mich.—Fourteen gill brides and fourteen young bridegrooms of the House of David, Benjamin Purnell's Israelite colony, were subpoenaed at noon Monday to appear before Judge Harry Dingeman, of Detroit, Monday afternoon and tell why they suddenly decided to get married in two big group weddings, held on successive nights last week.

Judge Dingeman, the one man grand jury appointed to investigate charges that virgins of "King Benjamin's" house of Shiloh, were bareheaded and that the 62 year old cult leader with his flowing hair and long beard was not a prophet but a sheik, wanted to know whether some one suggested the sudden marrying off of the girl residents of Purnell's home.

Twenty-nine witnesses have been subpoenaed for Monday afternoon.

LA FOLLETTE MAY TRAIL HARDING

Wisconsin Senator Planning Tour Sometime In June

Madison—Senator Robert M. La Follette will take the stump to carry his ideas to the people of the country sometime in June, according to word from his son and secretary, Robert M. La Follette, Jr.

The senior Wisconsin senator plans to take a brief vacation before that time in order to put himself in shape for a vigorous campaign. His secretary reports it is expected at his home here that Senator La Follette will remain in Washington for a few weeks and then come west, probably to Battle Creek, Mich. His original plan to come back to Madison for a time before opening his speaking tour, is said by his friends to have been dropped.

The itinerary to be followed by Senator La Follette has not been arranged. It was said in political circles here Monday. He has had numerous invitations to appear in most of the middle western states according to the report, but has withheld acceptance for the time being.

Wisconsin senator may take up the trail of President Harding should he swing through the west.

SWIMS ASHORE FOR AID; SAVE 5 FROM PLANE

Woman Among Rescued When Airship Is Forced In Water Near Coney Island

New York—Four men and a woman passengers and crew of a seaplane forced down to the waters off Coney Island Sunday night, were rescued by the marine police after a sixth member of the party, Robert Dewey, owner of the flying ship swam 100 yards to the shore and summoned aid.

The five were rescued after they had given up hope of succor, the police launch having drifted about for more than an hour before it picked up the disabled craft, which was dragging its anchor and drifting helplessly about the sea. Several waves had washed overboard the frail plane, threatening momentarily to sweep the weary passengers overboard.

The woman passenger was Mrs. Muriel Boggs, Detroit. J. Herbert Eskus, and two mechanics were the others aboard.

Hunger His Motive For A.&P. Theft

Two officers of the police department are to be rewarded with a 3-day vacation each for capturing Robert W. Richards, said to be of Fond du Lac, half an hour after the man held up P. S. Van Gilder, manager of the west end Atlantic & Pacific Tea company store, and robbed the cash register of $15.50. Richards will not be tried until his record is looked up by the police.

At 9:40 Monday morning the gunman, who is about 30 years old and was wearing a shabby overcoat, entered the store at 1620 College ave. and walking behind the counter to where Mr. Van Gilder was standing, pointed a 38 calibre revolver at him and demanded what money he had. The manager informed him he hadn't much, whereupon the stranger backed him to the cash register, keeping him covered with the gun meanwhile, and helped himself to the contents, $15.50, and after closing it went his way.

The manager immediately telephoned the police station. Sergeant James Moore, who was in charge, notified Chief George T. Pratt, who was at the court house. Chief Pratt immediately sent Detective John Duval and Officer Albert Deltgen, who were with him on another case, to the store where they got a description of the stranger.

PURSUED IN AUTO

They then rushed out in the fast police car to locate him and traced him down Richmond-st. to Packard-st. and from Packard-st. to North Division-st. Finally they picked him up on Superior-st. between Pacific and Atlantic-sts. With only a vague description and with no clues as to the direction he went, they had him in custody in less than half an hour after the holdup.

When questioned by Chief Pratt at the police station the stranger gave his name as Robert W. Richards, and while he had no particular home at present said he lived at Fond du Lac from 1913 to 1917, where he has a sister. He claimed he is a railroad man and was formerly employed by the Soo Line, and during the war rendered military service.

When asked if he had ever been arrested before he said he had not. When questioned if he was a member of a gang that was doing about the country holding up Atlantic & Pacific company stores and Piggly Wiggly stores he answered in the negative.

NEEDED MONEY

According to his story he came here from Fond du Lac Saturday and stopped at the hotel on the hotel on Sunday night. He slept out Sunday night because he had no money, he said. When asked by Chief Pratt why he committed the holdup he said he was hungry and needed the money. As to the revolver he said it was one he had owned for some time and which he had always carried. The weapon was of 38-calibre and was filled with loaded cartridges.

Richards was placed in a cell in the police station and will not be taken into court until more information about him is secured.

Chief Pratt is of the opinion he is no novice at the business and may be wanted elsewhere. He had the man's photograph taken Monday afternoon.

In speaking of the arrest, the chief said it was one of the quickest pieces of work in many years and in way of reward he intends to give the two members of the force making it a vacation of three days each.

TRADING BOOSTS SUGAR PRICE AGAIN

Madison Legislature Asks Remedial Legislation To Stop Gambling

New York—Cuban raw sugar Monday sold at a new high record since 1920 with a sale of 10,000 bags to an operator for 50¢ per pound, at 61¢ cents, cost and freight, equal to 52¢ delivered. Raw futures also touched new high records and one local refinery advanced list prices for fine granulated 10 points to 97.

SOLO ACTS

Madison—Investigation of alleged exorbitant sugar prices and enactment of remedial legislation by congress is asked in a joint resolution introduced in the Wisconsin assembly Monday by Assemblyman Julius Kleiser, Milwaukee Socialist.

The resolution sets forth that "while the public is being unjustly robbed of thousands of dollars yearly no one in authority is doing anything to stop such prices or to ascertain what legislation, if any is needed in order to afford needed relief."

U. S. TO FORE AS NEAR EAST PARLEY OPENS

France And Britain Expected To Oppose Concessions Granted To Americans

By Associated Press

Lausanne—The question of the Near Eastern oil fields, especially those covered by the Chester concession, is in the foreground Monday as the allied Turkish delegations meet in another effort to draft a peace treaty acceptable to both sides.

Whether the general subject of concessions comes before the conference formally seems to depend on the success of direct negotiations between British and French concession holders and the Turkish government which were advised by the Allies when they agreed to detach economic questions from the treaty. France, it is believed will probably insist on the rights accorded her in 1914 by the former Turkish government and the British delegation has let it be known that it will support the French claim in the event the issue is brought before the conference.

Both Great Britain and France received the news of the Chester grant with a bit of uneasiness. France because she thinks the 1914 agreement gives her priority in territory covered by the concession and Great Britain because she is uncertain as to whether the region thus opened to American exploitation affects the mandated Iraq territory in which lie the valuable Mosul fields.

Delegates here understand that the United States, through her representative Joseph C. Grew, will continue to support the open door policy.

FORMER ARMY CHIEF ACCUSES DAUGHTERY

Charges Attorney General Uses Indictment Power For Political Purposes

By Associated Press

Pittsburgh—Attorney General Daugherty was accused of using the power of indictment in the war camp cases for political purposes and of besmirching reputations without evidence, to even decently support his charges, in a speech here Monday by R. C. Marshall, Jr., chief of the construction division of the army during the war.

Addressing a business men's luncheon, Mr. Marshall, who formerly held the rank of brigadier general, said the department of justice, after five years and following investigations costing the government hundreds of thousands of dollars had the "unmitigated effrontery" to plead unpreparedness in several of the cases at the same time accusing contractors of inefficiency for having built or repaired in days.

"The spectacle of these men (the war camp contractors) pilloried in the public press, posted as evil self seekers in the time of the nation's travail," Mr. Marshall said, "is the result of our fluctuating political power. There are men and processes actively at work in the government today who unless restrained can so discredit the functioning of that organization that the confidence of the people in it will be lost."

Berlin Protests Expulsion—Poincaré Denies 30 Million Marks Offer

MILWAUKEE BREWERS ASK REFUND OF TAXES

BULLETIN

London—The Berlin correspondent of the Central News says he learns on good authority that the German government is preparing a positive offer to the Allies. The government, he adds, will declare readiness to negotiate and discuss the questions of reparations and guarantees.

PROTEST EXPULSION

Berlin—The government has sent a note of protest to the French, British and Belgian governments against the expulsion of Prince Von Hartfeldt, the German commissioner in the occupied territory whereby the population, it is declared is "deprived of the last means of making known the sufferings they endure at the hands of the occupying forces."

"INVENTED" IS CHARGE

Paris—Premier Poincaré, speaking in the town of Verdun Monday asserted that the offer of thirty billion marks which Baron Von Rosenberg, Germany's foreign minister, recently told the Reichstag was rejected by the Allies without a hearing last January, was never made and was "invented for the occasion."

If such an amount is now named, the premier said, "it is doubtless an attempt to please the German Socialists who suggested it."

"Admitting, for the sake of argument, that Baron Von Rosenberg told the truth," M. Poincaré asked, "what would follow? And thus answered his own question."

"That Germany after formally admitting her indebtedness of 132,000,000,000 marks in May 1921 and after having obtained in return for this admission the concession that the Ruhr should not be occupied again in Jan. 1923 to offer the Allies less than a quarter of the sum promised by her and fixed by reparations commissioner."

INCREASE RATES

Berlin—The Reichsbank Monday raised its discount rate from 12 percent to 15 percent. This is the sixth increase since July, 1922. The 12 percent rate was established on Jan. 18.

SUSPEND ILLINOIS PROHIBITION CHIEF

Washington—Acting Prohibition Director Roscoe Andrews of Illinois was suspended Monday by Commissioner Haynes pending an investigation into the case of the Grommes Ullrich distillery.

Chicago—Suspension of Roscoe C. Andrews, acting prohibition director for Illinois, announced Monday from Washington was not unexpected here where the recent liquidation of Grommes and Ullrich liquor dealers, by division of its liquor among stockholders, raised a storm of comment.

The Illinois Anti Saloon league was instrumental in giving publicity to the deal and through the league's investigators, some of the names of stockholders, who obtained the liquor became public.

Removal permits for the liquor were issued by Mr. Andrews who said the action was in accordance with the law. It was also disclosed that the stockholders paid a revenue tax of $6.40 a case for the recent liquidation of the stocks. The stocks were said to include choice old whiskeys, cordials and other liquors.

JAIL TERM GIVEN DRUNKEN DRIVER

Edward Nassey, Joseph Kapnell and Editha Nassey of Kaukauna were taken into custody at 11:45 Sunday night by Detective John Duval and Officer John Kobussen after the automobile in which they were riding struck a post in front of Ormsby hall. NAVIGATION ON RIVERS TO OPEN ON MAY 1

Prolonged Cold Makes Boats
Start On Latest Date
In Many Years

Navigation season will open on the Fox and Wolf rivers at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, May 1 according to official announcement of P. S. Skinner, district engineer, Milwaukee.

This is the latest opening date for many years, due to the continuance of the cold weather far beyond the usual period. Navigation usually starts about the middle of April.

Ice has gone out on the Fox and Wolf rivers and has broken up in some of the smaller lakes, but up to Saturday Lake Winnebago was almost in tact save for a few open places. The ice began breaking up Saturday and Sunday but not to any marked degree. It is honeycombed considerably by the recent warm weather and is not expected to cause much damage when it does give way. A high wind probably will accomplish the breaking up in record time. The ice is said to be almost four feet thick in places.

Little flood danger is feared now, as the streams ordinarily expected to swell beyond their banks seem to have subsided. The sluice gates at Menasha dam have been kept open for weeks to allow the lake level to be lowered. The prolonged cold kept the streams from overflowing and permitting a gradual draining off of the surplus water into Green Bay. Further high water is expected as the snow in the north melts, but no serious consequences are anticipated.

I SPIED TODAY

More writers are wanted for the I Spied Today column of the Post-Crescent. We are in need of many good items but there are people who have not tried their hand at this task. Thinking perhaps that they have no chance to earn tickets to the Elite theatre it is a simple matter to record events that you see in your travels, and well-written items, prepared definitely with names, time and location, usually are acceptable for the I Spied column. Some good pictures are promised this week at the Elite theatre. Get your share of the free tickets by adding your news to this column.

THAT'S WHAT THEY DO

As I was walking down town about 8 o'clock Saturday morning I saw a boy about 11 years of age with a quantity of advertising matter under his arm. He evidently was going to earn a little spending money by distributing these advertising booklets for one of the local firms. About an hour later I saw that same lad shortening up his task by chucking these little booklets down between the iron grating in the side walk several blocks down the avenue.

CHARGE POLITICS INDUCED ALDERMAN TO MISS MEETING

Council Meets As Committee Of Whole Tonight To Discuss Bridges

Whether Appleton will build one, two or no bridges this year probably will be definitely determined Monday evening in the city hall when the common council meets as a committee of the whole to discuss the recommendations to be made to the council at its next meeting. The committee of the whole session originally was scheduled for last Friday evening but discussion of bridges was deferred because of the absence of Alderman McGillan. There is a feeling that all of the aldermen should be present when a matter as important as bridges are under consideration.

Yelled hints that politics figured in the absence of Alderman McGillan Friday night are being heard. It is charged that the council is divided evenly, six for building the Cherry st bridge and six opposed. In case of a tie vote the mayor, who is known to favor the Cherry-st construction, would cast the deciding vote. Under the law a majority of elected aldermen is necessary to build the bridges.

It is said McGillan is opposed to building the bridge and his absence would have resulted in a vote of six for building the bridge and five opposed if a vote had been taken. Although the bridge proponents would have been in the majority, they lacked one of the necessary seven votes and the bridge could not be built.

It is openly said by proponents of the Cherry-st bridge that if any alderman fails to attend the meeting Monday evening it will be prima facie evidence that this method is being taken to block the construction. Bridge advocates are confident that if all the aldermen attend the meeting they will be able to muster the necessary seven votes to authorize the work.

LAWRENCE RADIO OUTFIT LIMITED

Broadcasting Of Programs Not Possible Unless Money Is Given

Unless a large sum of money is appropriated by the administration of Lawrence college or donated by someone who is interested in radio, there will be no broadcasting program at the college next year. The radio outfits at the college have been perfected so that the operators have been able to send telegraphic code messages as far as Belfast, Ms., and when the telephonic equipment is complete, Lawrence messages will be sent all over the state.

There are no plans at the present time for a broadcasting station to be used as a means of publicity for the school. Although Carl J. Waterman, dean of the Lawrence conservatory is in favor of sending student concerts, lack of funds makes it impossible to finance the station without a special appropriation.

Regret that the local community and the college cannot take advantage of this means of broadcasting the enormous amount of entertainments which Appleton has is being expressed by students and townspeople alike. Other colleges are already taking up the work. Beloit has begun to use her station for city and college programs and so has St. Olaf college.

Good Will Be Done Both Rich Girls And Poor At Girl Scout Convention

National Council Will Assemble In Washington This Week To Attempt To Solve Problems Of Young Girls Of Today

Washington—Poor girl or rich girl—the needs of each will be discussed at the ninth annual convention of the National Council of Girl Scouts to be held here during the week of April 23.

Girls who come from homes that are troubled by financial difficulties probably will get the most consideration, but those who happily are born into families possessed with plenty have "difficulties" too, which the scouts endeavor to correct.

The convention, which will be held at the Wardman Park Hotel, will be preceded by a week of intensive training in scout leadership at the Manor Club just outside of Norbeck, Maryland.

Representatives from almost every large city in the United States will be present. There are 250 councils in the organization, but in many smaller cities there are no organized councils, and many of this latter class of cities will be represented too.

In all, 350,000 girls will be accounted for through delegates to the convention.

TO STUDY GIRL LIFE

While the convention itself will be given over principally to a discussion of the training and development of the leaders directing the movements of their younger sisters, still attention will be paid to about every phase of the adolescent girl.

On the 23d, two informal receptions will be tendered visiting delegates by the president and national officers, one at the home of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the secretary of commerce and the national president of the organization, and the other at the home of Mrs. Adolph Miller.

The day following business of the week will get under way in earnest. Addresses will be made by Mrs. Arthur Osgood Choate, New York City; Mrs. Frank D. Holland of Atlanta, Miss Caroline Lewis of White Plains, N. Y.; Mrs. James J. Storrow of Boston and Dean Sarah Louise Arnold, head of the education department.

CAMP PROBLEM

One of the most interesting topics to be discussed will be needs of scouts according to geographical sections. Delegates from California, New York, Florida and Minnesota will tackle the question.

There are about 200 girl scout camps in the country, and some of the papers to be read will deal with

STELLA DALLAS IS MUCH READ NOVEL

Prouty's Book Is Typical Of Life, With Its Strange Married Life Tale

The new novel "Stella Dallas" by Prouty which has been one of the most popular fiction books this last week at Appleton public library is the story of several rather unusual characters inasmuch as they are seldom portrayed in books.

The book tells the story of the marriage between a man of education and breeding and a woman uncultured in the fine points of good taste, crude and intellectually undiscerning, but generous at heart. The question arises where such a marriage can be made a success and the views of the story are interesting. It tells the effect not only upon Stephen and Stella Dallas but upon their strange and beautiful child, Laurel. The novel brings out the fact that there is a Stella Dallas in every community, that she is a part of every city, town and village where there is a main street and social barriers. It shows how these women are often misjudged and how many are at times wrongly condemned.

The other two fiction numbers which have been in great demand have been "Wanderer of the Wasteland" by Grey and "The Dim Lantern" by Bailey. Both of the books have been in the popular group for the last two or three weeks and both numbers are comparatively new.

"Loyalties" by Galsworthy and "Traveling Salesmanship" by Douglas are the two nonfiction books which have been in most demand this last week. Recently nonfiction books have been much sought. People are reading books pertaining to their special business interests and also on questions of the day.

WILL THIS PLAN WORK OUT?

The iron-fisted premier of Bulgaria, Stamboulisky, who enforces a pugilistic system of governmental administration, plans to try it on Bulgaria communists. Stamboulisky's scheme for crushing radical socialism is unique and appears to be a trifle arbitrary, like most of his political contrivances, but it may produce the desired results.

Stamboulisky proceeds, in regard to communists, on the theory that they should have what they advocate. Inasmuch as they teach communism, he assumes that they want it, and he intends to give it to them. They may not want it, after all; nevertheless, as they declare it to be excellent, he will force it on them.

The premier contemplates enactment of a compulsory law applicable to avowed communists. The law would force them to relinquish title to their property and own it on common. Communists would be compelled to live in colonies established by the government and share equally in work and profits.

Few of Stamboulisky's measures are praiseworthy, but there is this much to be said for his plan, that it has been proven by experience that the best cure for communism is communism.

EINSTEIN'S GRAVITATION THEORY

Experiments conducted by scientists of the United States Bureau of Standard with topaz and diamond crystals are said to prove the Einstein theory of gravitation, to some extent, over the Newtonian theory. The old theory assumed that the weight of topaz and diamond crystals varied with a change of axis from a position vertical to that of the earth to one horizontal. The Einstein theory is that there is no variation in weight.

We should like to have Mr. William Jennings Bryan's opinion on this subject before we arrive at a final conclusion. Velocity may have some effect in causing variation of weight, or gravity may have some effect on velocity. We desire first to have Mr. Bryan's opinion.

STUDY HOURS AND PLAY HOURS

The Parents' and Teachers' association of the Lyndale school district, in Minneapolis, has adopted a code of discipline for children attending the grade school. The rules apply to children of eight to fifteen years of age, and cover the time when children are not busy with class work.

It is no doubt correct to assume that children are not to blame for being lax in their studies, or for imperfections of conduct. Allowing for merits and faults as inheritance the merits are diminished and the faults are magnified by unfavorable environment. Parental discipline, or want of it, is the most important influence in childhood days.

The Lyndale code reads like the regulations which prevail in well-managed boarding colleges. It provides for lesson-study at home, and, which is still more significant, it takes cognizance of the relationship of play and recreation to school efficiency and good conduct.

Play as a measure of discipline? Play as a moral influence? Play as an aid to study? Of course. Play fills in the spare time that would otherwise be wasted in idleness, wild fancies and evil companionship.

Here are a few of the ideas of the Lynddale code: 11:45 A. M. to 1 P. M., luncheon and recreation at home or school; 3:30 to 5:30 P. M. recreation in vicinity of home; 5:30 to 6 P. M., home duties; 7 to 8:15 P. M. home studies; 8:15 to 9 P. M., recreation in or out of doors; 9 P. M., curfew, and to bed.

It seems to be a sensible arrangement. It provides for discipline, but not too much; for study, but not too much; for play, but not too much. Back of it all is system and wholesome regulation. If a neighborhood adopts this or a similar plan, its general environment is sure to be right for children.

A CHINESE PRAYER

Visiting an American state legislature, a Chinese gentleman oddly named William Hung, who is professor of history in Peking university, was asked to open the session with prayer. Prof. Hung thereupon offered up this petition:

O God, Father of all nations, thou hast chosen America as the land in which to experiment with a political democracy, to be an example for the adoption and adoption by other peoples in other lands.

Help these lawmakers to make America the finest land in the world to live in—finest not because of comfort or luxury, but because it is the place where men can do and serve most. Help them to make America the greatest nation in the world—not in the sense that other nations may fear her most because of her power, but in the sense that she is loved the most because of her great heart; not in the sense that she has the most or gets the most, but in the sense that she gives most and serves best.

Thus proving again that out of the mouths of foreigners we sometimes gain a conception of the American spirit as lofty as that of the Fathers themselves.

AN ANTI-NARCOTIC WEEK

The local lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose of Washington, D. C., has passed resolutions calling upon President Harding to set aside a week to be observed nationally as Anti-Narcotic Week. This is part of a campaign against the dope evil which the organization as a whole will sponsor. The following facts published recently by authorities on the subject are only part of a great mass of evidence showing that the need for such activity is not overestimated:

The narcotic traffic has tripled in volume in the last two years in America. Forty times more narcotics are used per capita by the people of the United States yearly than by any other nation. Seventeen times more are used here than in China.

It is estimated that three and one-half tons of opium are sufficient for the legitimate yearly use of medicine for the entire world. Yet over 9,000 tons are produced and disposed of. What proportion goes into illegitimate channels can be seen. These figures take no note of the cocaine traffic.

Those who take and dispense drugs illegitimately cover a field as broad as humanity. No circle, community, sex or age but numbers its victims. A week devoted to arousing the nation would be well spent. But it will take longer than that to conquer the enemy.

LOSS OF LIFE IN FIRES

Fire losses in the United States totaled $495,000,000 in 1922, more than a million and a quarter of dollars a day. This is the same as saying that fire wipes out, every twelve months, the equivalent of a city of more than half a million inhabitants.

Loss by fire is destructive. Property that goes up in smoke is property obliterated. It cannot be restored. Mr. T. Alfred Fleming, supervisor of the conservation department of the National board of Fire Underwriters, declares that sixty-five per cent of all fires occurs in homes, and more than eighty-three per cent of the injured are mothers, children of school age and invalids.

Not enough attention is given to the construction of residences, according to Mr. Fleming. In Europe, he says, homes are built to last; in this country they are built to sell. And he charges that we take small precautions against fire in the home, and do not make our schools as safe as we should. We train employees of factories in the rules of safety; yet do not tell members of our families what to do in the event that fire attacks the home.

If loss of life and property by fire is to be minimized, this agreeable result can be brought about most speedily by impressing on the public the fact that it is the sufferer. Loss of life is public loss, and property owners and tenants pay in insurance premiums the money which settles property loss by fire.

BEWARE OF DIDUCATION

Judging by the anxiety a great many amateur mothers express in letters to me about the normal events of infancy I fear too many of them believe everything they see in the dailies. Even the trained nurse is likely to arrive at wrong conclusions when she goes in for diducation. For that matter the didactic Dr. Holt himself, in his little manual which many a distracted parent peruses when overtaken with a squall, seems unwarrantably suspicious of such trifling items as fat curds, strings of mucous ("slime") and greenish color in the dials. I have often urged upon parents the wisdom of tossing the clinical thermometer into the ash can and never minding what the temperature may be. Let me now remind young mothers and the neighbors, and any semitrained nurses who may so far forget their training as to indulge in diagnostic and therapeutic favors for unsophisticated people, that the stools of the healthy breast fed baby often contain small yellowish lumps of fat, or a considerable quantity of mucus, or have a green color, or may be more frequent than usual, and that such trifles are insignificant and certainly should never occasion any change of food.

A young mother wrote me the other saying her doctor told her she should give the baby a few spoonfuls of orange juice each day while condensed milk was being used as a substitute food because condensed milk was poor in vitamins, as well as inadequate in fat content, but a "trained nurse" told her not to give the orange juice, as the condensed milk was enough without it. The nurse masquerades as a trained nurse.

Although it is wise to accustom the nursing infant to taking something from the bottle daily from the beginning, usually only water, if breast feeding proves inadequate in the first few months, then even though supplementary bottle feeding becomes necessary the mother should continue, for at least six months, to nurse the baby at least once or twice a day until his condition is such that he may be safely weaned.

The first question to be settled when such additional or supplemental feeding is needed is—just what is best to give in the bottle?

Naturally the best substitute for human milk, the one that is best for the baby, is human milk. If one or two bottle feedings daily be required, this does not demand the formidable equipment or apparatus which is necessary for the modification of milk after the baby has been weaned. A bottle of food for one supplementary feeding may be prepared after this formula:

Pure fresh milk (pasteurized only if there is doubt about the health of the herd or the cleanliness of those handling the milk) 1½ ounces
Boiled water 1 ounce
Lactose (Sugar of milk) ½ teaspoonful
Milk is pasteurized not over the temperature of 140 degrees F., holding at that temperature 20 minutes, then cooling again. This destroys any tubercle bacilli or staphylococci from the cow, or typhoid bacilli contributed by dirty handlers, or other disease germs accidentally contaminating the milk before it reaches the consumer.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Almanac Stuff

I eat peppermints a great deal. Are they good for the stomach? I have been told they will dry up the blood. Are peanuts hard on the stomach?—D. H. Answer—Peppermint is a condiment like mustard or horse radish irritating to the stomach and certainly not good for the stomach. The less we take of these irritants the better for our health. Peanuts are excellent food, very nutritious, quite as digestible and as good for the stomach as any other wholesome food. The notion that peppermint will "dry up the blood" is a bit of old-fashioned imagination. It reminds one of the old quack's stentorian warning that "colic rots the bones."

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Monday, April 25, 1898

Plans were being made for a big demonstration for members of Company G before they took their departure for the war.

E. L. Anderson, chief of the fire department, and Edward Brewster, city electrician were at Sheboygan inspecting the fire alarm boxes of that city.

Henry Louis left for Chicago, where he expected to remain the greater part of the summer.

Major N. E. Morgan and Adjutant C. A. Green were ordered to purchase horses for their use in fighting the Spaniards.

Employees of the Appleton Wire Works and their wives and friends to over 100 enjoyed a social at the factory the previous Saturday evening.

Andrew Wuehr, an employee of Patten Paper company cut his hand quite seriously while handling tin.

It took the house of representatives at Washington, D. C., one minute and forty-one seconds to pass the declaration of war bill.

Dr. W. H. Neeker and Miss Maud Briggs were married at the Congregational church parsonage at Oshkosh the previous afternoon by the Rev. E. H. Smith.

Nearly all of the flags of the city were run up early in the morning and windows were decorated with national colors. The city presented more of a holiday appearance than of war.

Curtis Turner, a former Appleton resident, died and was buried at Omaha, Neb., April 20.

TEN YEARS AGO

Monday, April 21, 1913

Dr. H. T. Johnson returned from a visit to Marinette.

Attorney W. H. Stafford of Chippewa Falls was an Appleton visitor.

The Married People's club held its final party of the season at Odd Fellows hall the evening previous.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hegner entertained 30 friends at dinner at Hotel Ritger the previous evening in honor of the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding day.

Mrs. Fred Harris, who was about to join her husband in St. Albans, was given a far-well party the previous Saturday afternoon at her home at 729 Winnebago-st.

Word has been received here that Lee C. Rasey of Lawrence college was the recipient of a scholarship for graduate work at Harvard university.

Miss Julia O'Connell of Appleton and Dr. Thomas E. Slarry of Madison were to be married at St. Mary church the following morning.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union petitioned the city commissioners to create the position of police matron and to make such appointments.

Libraries Are Used By Only Half Of People

BY ROY GIBBONS

Chicago — Between community indifference and inadequate financial support, 50 per cent of the American people are missing the public library advantages they might enjoy free.

The statement is that of Secretary Carl H. Millam of the American Library Association, who has just finished a national survey of the situation in his organization's behalf. He finds:

That only 11,000,000 of our 110,000,000 population are registered book borrowers, that few who do borrow take full advantage of their opportunities, that most libraries fall short of accomplishing what they might, that the best equipped do not give a maximum of service, and that 14 states are without traveling library systems to reach rural districts.

Millam attributes these conditions to public failure to realize what libraries can do in promoting popular, and especially adult, education, and to insufficient awards to attract recruits into the library field.

"In 1876," says Millam, "there were in the country approximately 3652 libraries, with a total of some 12,000,000 volumes. Today there are 9200 libraries, not counting those in communities of less than 1000, and a dozen of the larger ones possess more books than all of them put together 50 years ago."

"What the library situation needs is the backing of an enthusiastic citizenry, educated to appreciate the uplifting influence of books easily obtained at no cost to the borrowers."

Millam's survey included the revelation that non-fiction and business books are much more in demand today than those of imagination and romance. Speaking nationally, he says this indicates that Americans are becoming more practical.

French Premier Is Kindly Man

(H. G. Cardozo, The London Mail Continental Edition.)

While French and Belgian troops guard the riches of the Ruhr coal basin and while at the gates of the great factories and huge smelting furnaces of the Krupp, the Stinnes and the Haniel are posted up curtly worded military notices warning the men of Germany that at last France and Belgium have come to claim their due, there sits in an office at the Quai D'Orsay, Paris, a short, pleasant faced gray haired man who holds in his hands all the power that makes armies move and that in a minute spells the future action of France in her great adventure.

That man is M. Poincare. He is the man who was the French premier for the great awakening, the French nation was preparing herself for the inevitable war. He is the man who as president of the republic had the awful responsibility of signing the decree of mobilization which was to send hundreds of thousands of Frenchmen to their death, fighting for the freedom of their country.

Now again at a critical hour for his country and for Europe the same little Lorraine barrister, the man whose clear and logical argument and incisive speech had made him in hunters has been that the best results are obtained by using cross bred dogs, the basis of the cross invariably being hound. A cross between an airlead and a hound or a setter and a hound both make good coon dogs, and specially good results were obtained by one coon hunter with one-fourth setter and three-fourths hound. The same type of coon dog is valuable for tracing beasts. Blood hounds, when old, are also good. The kind of dog required is a small naging animal.

Q. Can a few words be removed from a photograph record? H. J. V. H.

A. A manufacturer of records says that he knows of no way by which a word or group of words can be removed from a photograph record without seriously injuring the record. By the very nature of a record of the lateral cut type, the music or recording is actually carved into the side walls of the grooves. To remove this carved portion, means the actual destruction of the groove, and an unpleasant grating noise will result.

A. After being dressed it is dyed as follows: the coloring matter is applied with a brush to the tips of the fur and distributed by shaking the fur. It is then dried and brushed. The process of dyeing, drying, and brushing is often repeated as many as 12 times.

Q. How are moss-agates formed? C. E. O'C.

A. The agate is a variety of quartz composed of successive layers of silica deposited from a silica-saturated water solution. Slight amounts of impurities in the silica solution produce different colors in the agate, giving rise to banded agate in which the successive layers are of different color, clouded agate which has irregularly disposed patches of color and moss agate which contains sharply defined, moss-like, dark markings due to manganese oxide.

Q. How are moss-agates formed? C. E. O'C.

A. The agate is a variety of quartz composed of successive layers of silica deposited from a silica-saturated water solution. Slight amounts of impurities in the silica solution produce different colors in the agate, giving rise to banded agate in which the successive layers are of different color, clouded agate which has irregularly disposed patches of color and moss agate which contains sharply defined, moss-like, dark markings due to manganese oxide.

Q. How is the fur of the seal dyed? E. A.

A. After being dressed it is dyed as follows: the coloring matter is applied with a brush to the tips of the fur and distributed by shaking the fur. It is then dried and brushed. The process of dyeing, drying, and brushing is often repeated as many as 12 times.

Pied Piper Attended By 800 Kiddies

Children's Play, Fairy Tale And Motion Picture Well Presented

More than 800 children and grown-ups attended the performance of the "Pied Piper of Hamelin" on Saturday afternoon, and were delighted with the colorful pantomime program which was presented by 100 girl scouts and 30 children from the Columbus kindergarten. The beautiful costumes were so obvious to the audience and so interested in playing their parts that the story of the Pied Piper and the rats was portrayed in splendid manner. The performance made a record in the matter of costume expense since only $3 out of the proceeds was used, and that was for the rats' heads. All other material was donated, then dyed, recut and refitted until the bright costumes were made. Practically all of them were made out of old garments and many of them were a combination of two or three petticoats, an extra silk drape and a castoff bit of lace or trimming. Nevertheless, the effect was charming.

The "Song in the Heart," the dramatization of one of Grimm's fairy tales was ably presented and the children liked it. Miss Florence Beaman was the coach of this play and introduced it to the children.

The movie, furnished by the board of visual instruction of the University of Wisconsin and entitled, "They Grow Ever Younger," was the story of Japanese babies, beautifully told. This was used between the pantomime and the fairy tale. Undoubtedly the "Pied Piper" program was the best thing which was ever presented for children here. The next program which the Children's Stock company will present is "The Queen's Tea Party."

THIS MILWAUKEE MACHINIST, 72, ASKS ODDS FROM NO MAN

Has Endurance Of Men Years Younger Since Taking Tanlac, Declares, Moomau

"The Tanlac treatment has given me robust health and proved that, just because a man is seventy-two years old is no sign he's got to be sick. Yes, that's my age, but when it comes to endurance I don't have to ask odds of men twenty or thirty years younger." This remarkable statement was made recently by Walter S. Moomau, well-known machinist of 306 W. Nevada-st., Urbana, Ill., while on a visit to Milwaukee.

"After a bad case of flu indigestion got a hold on me, I was nervous, restless, depressed, could scarcely eat or sleep, and was about run-down to the last notch. Cramps, heartburn and choking feeling on account of gas pressure were some of my torments, and constipation and pains in my back troubled me too.

"My luck changed when I started taking Tanlac. Today I feel as fine as I ever did in my life, without an ailment in the world. That I recommend Tanlac goes without saying."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 37 million bottles sold. adv.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair
If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisifted cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair. Simply put two or three teaspoonsful of Multisifted in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten the hair with water and rub this. Multisifted. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get Multisifted cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few cents is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Multisifted.

HORTONVILLE TO GRADUATE BIGGEST CLASS IN HISTORY

High School Class Events Dates Are Set—Building Is Improved

Special to Post-Crescent.
Hortonville—High school students are busy studying and cramming for the final examinations which will take place in a few weeks. They are anticipating with pleasure, however, the numerous festivities and activities which usually take place about the close of the school year.

The senior class this year consists of 23 students, 15 girls and 8 boys. This is the largest class to graduate from Hortonville high school since its creation in 1906.

The seniors are Laura Bersche, Alice Behrend, Viola Kuehn, Arnelia Sambo, Gladys Douglas, Marion Hodgins, Lillian Miesche, Marcella Steffen, Lucile Ruppel, Lena Schroeder, Gertrude Meyne, Beulah Rhodes, Helen Scholl, Nina Hopkins, Ruth Schull, Harold Shaw, Wilbur Garzke, Theodore Kluge, Neal Jack, Raymond Scholl, Edna Starefist, and Lydia Oppert.

PLANT TO SPEAK
The commencement exercises will take place at the auditorium June 3. Frank S. Platt of the University of Wisconsin will deliver the commencement address.

The class play, "Star Bright," will be given at the auditorium May 11. The cast includes Beulah Rhodes, Alice Behrend, Marion Hodgins, Arnelia Sambo, Lucile Ruppel, Wilbur Garzke, Neal Jack, Raymond Scholl, Harold Shaw and Theodore Kluge.

Class day exercises are also being prepared, which will take place commencement week at the high school. The musical show, which was to have been held last fall, but was postponed because of the illness of several students, will probably be given before the close of school.

PROM IS MAY 3
One of the biggest events of the school year will be the junior prom, which will be held at the auditorium May 3. The juniors have a very appropriate and original plan for the decoration of the auditorium and according to reports, it will be one of the prettiest proms ever held here.

One of the biggest changes effected in the high school building this year, has been the enlargement of the laboratory. It has been enlarged to twice its former size. New study desks have been installed; also a large amount of new laboratory equipment. Four new windows have been put in which brighten the room considerably and make it one of the finest classrooms in the building.

Another change is the senior assembly. Formerly all of the students assembled in the main study hall. A few weeks ago, however, the seniors were installed in their own private assembly room which had been used as a classroom.

BROWN-CO SEEKS CLEANUP OF T. B.

Green Bay—Three hundred persons are expected to take an active interest throughout Brown county in procuring signatures to petitions asking the state authorities to introduce the area test for tubercular cattle into the county. Petitions must be signed by more than 60 per cent of the farmers before the service will be granted. A mass meeting was called for Dr. Tere on Saturday. A worker has been appointed for each school district in the county.

MANITOWOC MASONS WILL ERECT TEMPLE

Manitowoc—With $45,000 already pledged, the Masons here have decided to proceed with the erection of a temple at once. The Masons are seeking $20,000 more.

The Masons recently acquired a site on Chicago street, here. A hotel now occupies the property which will be removed within the next few days. Excavating will be started before May 1 and the contractors have promised completion of the temple by Dec. 15.

WAUSAU LUMBER MILLS RAISE WORKERS' WAGES

Wausau—Several lumber companies operating saw mills in this city have made a general increase of 50 cents per day in the wages of employees. Other manufacturers here are expected to announce wage increases soon. Business in the wood working industries is thriving and the demand for workers is acute.

ARTERIAL STREET PLAN IS BEGUN IN GREEN BAY

Green Bay—The arterial systems of highways became effective here when workers with the street department started the work of placing the necessary signs on streets designated under the new ordinances. The rules will be enforced immediately, it was announced by Thomas Hawley, chief of police.

The establishment of the arterial system is seen as an indication that traffic rules all the way through the book are to be more rigidly enforced here in the future.

Kaukauna—Methodist church troop No. 1, Kaukauna boy scouts, held a rally and contest with a Neenah troop at Neenah Friday evening. The local boys tried hard to win in every contest and the meeting was characterized by friendly rivalry. Kaukauna scored only 5 1/2 points against about 40 scored by Neenah. Frank Charlesworth, Jr., scoutmaster, and Owen Kitto, assistant, accompanied the boys.

The contests included military drill with 16 boys to a team; patrol knot tying, eight boys; individual knot tying, first aid, two boys and a "patient"; stretcher race, four boys and "patient"; semaphore signalling, four boys. This contest was judged on the speed and accuracy with which a 60-word message was sent and received. Athletic events followed including an obstacle race, dressing race, potato race, take hat race, broad jumping and patrol jumping. The Kaukauna troop will hold a rally with the Neenah troop out of doors in this city in about a month.

MANY ENGLISH TITLES ARE BOUGHT AND PAID FOR

By Associated Press.
London—The hawkings of pearls, knighthoods and other titles, which has periodically shocked the British public, is again engaging the attention of the government. In the house of lords recently Marquis Curzon said it is the intention of the government to introduce legislation in order to carry out some of the recommendations of the royal commission on honors. He declared grave uneasiness had been excited by the excessive number of additions to the peerage in recent years. Much suspicion had been created, he said, by the fact that titles in some cases were conferred upon persons whose claims rested solely upon the basis of large political contribution.

The foreign secretary deplored the existence of what he termed "outs," who were engaged in peddling honors to the highest bidder. He referred to this genre as a "deplorable, discreditable and ignominious phenomenon in our public life, which I hope will soon be eradicated."

At the last inquiry into the subject of the indiscriminate award of titles, it was disclosed that as high as $100,000 was given for a baronetcy.

GREENVILLE COWS ARE IN DEMAND BY ILLINOIS FARMERS

More Calves Will Be Raised This Year To Relieve Dairying Shortage

Special to Post-Crescent.
Greenville—Another carload of milk cows has been bought up in this locality by Illinois cattle buyers to supply the demand for dairy animals there. Most of these were picked in the town of Greenville because of the extensive testing that has been done to eradicate tuberculosis. The large amount of buying indicates that there is a shortage of dairy cows and the farmers therefore are planning to raise more calves this summer for the market.

VALUABLE HISTORIC DATA FOUND IN MOON GOD SHRINE

By Associated Press.
London—Recent excavations from C. L. Woolley, director of the joint archaeological expedition sent to the ancient city of Ur, in Babylonia, by the University of Pennsylvania and the British Museum show that the temple of the Moon God has been almost completely uncovered and that the main wall of the temenos, or enclosure, has been traced for a considerable distance. Inscriptions and tablets have been found in large numbers. These tablets are of un-baked clay and highly fragile. Mr. Woolley has devised a new method for their preservation, which is more elaborate than any hitherto applied.

The few tablets that have been examined so far are of the Sumerian period, about 2000 B. C., and relate to accounts, money and so forth. It is impossible, however, to estimate their value until they have been subjected Kimberly—Playing before a packed house and unable to accommodate at least 60 people, Kimberly Dramatic club presented its play, "For The Love Of Johnny" at afternoon and evening performances Sunday.

The cast of characters was well chosen, as was shown when each drew expressions of pleasure in playing his role. Lester Rosera, playing the diffident part of the coward, was highly praised. This was true also of Miss Catheryn Steuyenberg, leading lady, who had the role of orphan.

Others who showed much stage ability were Philip Midway as Father Ryan; John Van Elsen as the soldier; Miss Minnie Van Daalwyk as Mrs. Banks.

Here Is "Nature's Greatest Food"

What Scientists Say About the Chief Elements of Father John's Medicine

If you find yourself getting listless, lazy and inactive, do not attribute your condition to the so-called "spring fever." You are really in a run down condition and are suffering from a lack of proper nourishment. You need a tonic to build up new strength and health and to increase your power of resistance.

You should take just such a tonic as Father John's Medicine. The chief element of Father John's Medicine is commonly called by physicians "nature's greatest food." This element is divided up into the tiniest of particles which are readily taken up by even the weakest of digestive systems. Father John's Medicine nourishes the body tissue and enriches the blood, so that the people taking it are soon restored to normal health. Start taking Father John's Medicine today.

SENATORS COMING TO STATE TO STOP WASTE OF TIMBER

Committee Will Hold Hearings On "Prodigality" At Madison, May 9

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington—Wisconsin has been a spendthrift in the use of timber, and is today, a committee of the United States Senate, therefore, is going to the Badger state, to look the situation over frankly with interested persons, and see if the Badger state will not mend its ways.

A hearing on the Wisconsin situation is to be held at Madison on May 9. Senators who will sit in the Madison hearing are Senator McNary, Oregon, chairman, and Senator Clegg, Michigan, Republicans, and Senators Harrison, Mississippi, and Fletcher, Florida, Democrats. The fifth member of the committee, Senator Moses, New Hampshire is now in Europe and will not return in time for the hearing.

Other lake states hearings are to be held at Chicago, Duluth, Cloquet, Minn., and Grand Rapids, Mich. Not all of the timber is gone in Wisconsin. On the Menominee reservation alone the Chippewas still own a billion feet of hard and soft timber, which is regarded as the best timber remaining in the Badger state. There are many other tracts in Wisconsin also.

INDIAN TIMBER GOING

At the present rate of removal all the timber will be taken off the Menominee reservation in the next three decades, it has been estimated. From 1884 to 1921 the J. S. Stearns Lumber company alone paid the Bad River Chippewas $7,000,000 for 1,258,000,000 feet of timber on this reservation.

Wisconsin is not alone in its timber prodigality. Every timber state has sinned. There has never been a fixed national policy with regard to conservation of forest resources and reforestation, a policy in which the federal government, the states and the interests are called upon to cooperate.

It is such a policy that the senate committee is seeking. The senators on the committee to visit Wisconsin represent the north, the south, the middle west and the Pacific coast states.

MANY TO FEED

Thirty years hence, Dr. L. C. Gray, land economist of the department of agriculture recently told the senate forestry policy committee the United States will probably have 150,000,000 people, who will need the production of 520,000,000 acres of crop and humid pasture land. Such an expansion of agriculture, he said, would in no way interfere with the utilization of the 470,000,000 acres now designated as forest land for the production of timber.

The purpose of Dr. Gray's testimony was to inform the committee as to whether an adequate forestry policy would encroach on the requirements of agriculture. He told the committee that the total land area of the contiguous territory of the United States, as 1,933 million acres of this amount 1,038 million acres are in the humid regions; the rest being arid or semi-arid. Deducting from this area the crop and humid pasture requirements for 30 years hence, would leave about 500,000,000 acres (after allowing 20,000,000 for certain non-agricultural uses of humid land for forest or combined forest and pasture use. There are 665,000,000 acres of semi-arid pasture land in the United States which is now established as a fixed quantity and is not to be encroached by tillage. There are about 50,000,000 acres of practical or actual desert.

ESTIMATES FOOD LANDS

In making his forecast of the food lands of the future, Dr. Gray assumed some increase in the productivity of the future. Dr. Gray assumed some increase in the productivity of farm lands and some alterations in the American standards of living, notably in respect to decreased consumption of meats. If the productivity and the standard of living were to remain as they are now, 150,000,000 people would require 447,000,000 acres in crops and 145,000,000 acres of humid pasture. These figures assume that then as now about 50,000,000 acres would be devoted to agricultural exports.

Per capita timber consumption were to continue the same for the next thirty years, however, and the rate of annual growth of timber were not increased, it would take 1,473 million acres of forest land to keep the country self-sustaining in timber. But, by improved forest management coupled with a probable reduction in the per capita consumption of timber the present 470,000,000 acres of forest land would take care of the country's timber needs.

It is estimated that in France there are from seven to eight million land owners out of a total population of about 40,000,000.

Virgin forests of the Philippine Islands cover approximately 40,000 square miles or about one-third of the total area of the Archipelago.

Charm And Ability As Workers Both Found In Five Lawrence Girls

Miss Lucile Muesel Is Trap Shooter As Well As Musician—Others Have Important College Offices

Attractive girls no longer have to live down the fact that beauty is only skin deep because everywhere beautiful women are doing splendid executive work and taking much responsibility. A group of five of the most prominent girls at Lawrence college who are also very attractive are no exceptions to the rule.

Time was when all capable women were classed in the unattractive group, but the activities of the Misses Lucile Muesel, Hilda Eller, Mathilda Harriman, Laura Sievert and Evelyn Jarrett bely the fact.

Miss Lucile Muesel of Green Bay is talented along more lines than most college girls. She is an accomplished pianist and vocal soloist, a champion trap shooter and an expert swimmer. Miss Muesel goes duck hunting with as much ease as she appears on the concert stage either as a pianist or a soprano soloist. She is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon musical sorority.

This talented girl came from the Chicago Musical college to Lawrence after having appeared in "Algonquin" at the Ziegfeld theater and having had many voice recitals. Since she has been at Lawrence, her concerts have been either voice or piano and she has traveled in all parts of the state on concert engagements. She has taken an important part in "Chimes of Normandy" and "Blue Bandits." She is the pianist in the Lawrence Symphony club and has been a soloist with the Lawrence Girls Glee club.

NATIONALLY PROMINENT

Besides many trophies in trap shooting which she has won in tournaments all over the United States, Miss Muesel won the second place in the ladies championship of the Grand American Handicap event in St. Louis in 1918 and holds the championship from the 1918 Grand American handicap event in Chicago. She has been a guest at Great Lakes where she shot with the naval officers.

Both Miss Sievert and Miss Harriman are Appleton girls, but few outside their small circle of friends know of the splendid extra-curriculum work they have made in extra-curriculum work since they entered college. Miss Sievert's activities are principally along the dramatic and journalistic lines. She will have the leading part in the college play, "Alice Sit by the Fire."

This year and has taken part in two other college plays. She has taken part in the freshman and interclass oratorical contests and has done a great deal in the journalistic field. She is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon and is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi honor society. A play which Miss Sievert has written will be produced soon by the Sunset Players, a dramatic club on the campus.

HAS DRAMATIC TALENT

Miss Harriman has taken part in "Come Out of the Kitchen," "Why the Chimes Rang" and will take an important part in "Alice Sit by the Fire." She has been on the Lawrence Staff and was chairman of arrangements for the two May fetes for the Y. Y. C. A. She has had a great interest in a number of oratorical contests and has held offices in most of these. She was president of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority for two years, vice president of Tau Tau Kappa for two years, president of English club, a member of Mortar Board and also a member of history, international relations, speech arts and Spanish clubs and the Sunset Players.

Miss Jarrett's activities have been divided among athletics, dramatics and journalism. She is at present president of the Women's Athletic association and she says spends most of her time fighting for women's rights in athletics. She is president of her sorority, Delta Gamma and has belonged to a large number of organizations. She has the distinction of having been on the Lawrence staff since the first day she came to Lawrence.

LIKES ATHLETICS

Besides being president of the athletic association, Miss Jarrett held chairmanships in that organization prior to her election as its executive. She is a Red Cross life saver and has several athletic records to her credit. Recently Miss Jarrett was elected to Theta Sigma Phi, the journalistic sorority, in recognition of the work she has done on the college weekly.

Miss Hilda Eller is at present holding two of the most important journalistic positions on the campus. She is news editor of the Lawrence and assistant editor of the Ariel, the Lawrence book. She is a member of Phi Mu sorority Theta Sigma Phi and a number of clubs. She is also president of the college Pan Hellenic organization and has been sent to Oklahoma as the Lawrence delegate to the Theta Sigma Phi convention. The journalistic positions which Miss

"BRASS COMMANDMENTS" WM. FARNUM'S LATEST

Drama, and William Farnum—There is a combination that becomes stronger with every picture in which the Fox star appears. His latest, "Brass Commandments," will be shown at the Elite tonight for the last time. It is a story of the West, done in the breezy style of Charles Alden Seltzer, popular for his narratives of outdoor action. To make a good thing better, Tom Santee, who held such a memorable conflict with Farnum in the "Spoilers" gives the Fox star an equally historical battle in this play.

There are two girls in the story. Wanda Hawley plays a capable feminine lead opposite Farnum and Claire Adams comes in for her share of honors. There is action, tons of it; the story retains interest by its dramatic tenacity; the romantic skin is well woven through the tale and the climax thunders with power. This is the opinion of critics who saw the film before its release to the general public. The people of Appleton will soon be able to judge for themselves.

Eller holds take more time perhaps than any other extra curricular offices on the campus.

Wisconsin Tax Waste Seen in Fight On Chicago

By William J. Healy, President of the Sanitary District of Chicago

Engineering Facts—by Edward J. Kelly, Chief Engineer of The Sanitary District of Chicago; Member, American Society of Civil Engineers, Western Society of Engineers, Engineering Member, Original Illinois Waterways Commission, South Pacific Commission of Chicago, and by George M. Wisner, Consulting Engineer and Lake Level Expert; Member, American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Western Society of Engineers.

Chicago, April 23.

The controversy today over the Chicago Water Diversion is the case of the Great Lakes vs. The Health and Prosperity of Chicago and the Chicago Market.

The Sanitary District offers the one practicable, economical solution of this years-old controversy, which has flamed anew in agitation as futile as it is misinformed, and is spreading throughout the Great Lakes region.

The solution offered, and urged upon Congress to accept, will restore the Great Lakes to their pristine fullness as great mill pond reservoirs and keep them restored through all the years to come.

That they shall be completely restored, is, we believe, the desire of all, including the radicals, pressing agitation against the Sanitary District. The only apparent split attends the question "How shall it be accomplished?" On the one hand is a destructive criticism, no solution, waste of public funds, disaster—because agitators refuse to look squarely at the engineering facts. On the other hand is the Sanitary District with the engineering facts and the solution of the problem.

To understand the situation that now confronts Chicago, it is necessary to turn the light on the present background of misrepresentations and their consequences.

In sequence the problem resolves itself into these major divisions:

1. The dangers involved and the agitation that brought them about;
2. The real facts about the relationship between the diversion of water at Chicago for various purposes and the levels of the lakes;
3. The proposal to restore those levels, that is, the solution of this controversy.

THE DANGER

Prostration of Chicago, one of the world's greatest markets, a great metropolitan center, is seriously threatened by a misguided attack that radicals from surrounding states have instituted against the Chicago Sanitary District, the public agency created by Illinois statute to keep physical Chicago clean and healthy.

The health of the city's 3,000,000 people and that of thickly populated environs, the wealth of the Chicago market, the prosperity of industry and commerce radiating throughout the world, in fact the entire welfare of the capital of the Middle West, are endangered by a program that, even partially successful, would make ours an unclean city, turn our intricacy water areas into cesspools and crush Chicago.

Wisconsin office holders are the chief offenders. They have seized on the lowering of the lake levels from natural causes as the lever for their campaign. There have been sporadic campaigns in the past, but none that could compare with the present in extent and viciousness. The present campaign, foisted on the public, of surrounding states as a fight for the people, is a campaign to cripple Chicago by reducing far beyond the safety point the amount of water taken here for the disposal of our sewage and that of our neighbors.

We are at a loss to comprehend its real origin. We know only that radicals have thrown truth to the winds and are beating their cynicals up and down the lakes, crying that Chicago is draining the lakes, destroying harbors, knocking shipping into a cocked hat, stealing water for power purposes.

"Chicago, the Great Water Thief," agitators cry, "We must work fast or Chicago will steal the lakes."

The agitation dragged public officials into the foreground, but perhaps not all needed dragging. And presently, out of the hue and cry the attorneys general of four states—Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota and Indiana—appeared in Chicago to hold a conference. It proved to be an abortion.

Wisconsin called the lawyers into session. The Sanitary District heard they were coming. We hoped they would sit down with us and arrive at a common sense solution that would settle the controversy. We offered them every opportunity. We offered to place our engineering staff at their disposal and with the staff all the knowledge accumulated in a quarter century of dealing with lake levels. This problem is wholly one of engineering facts, its solution one of engineering science, but the attorneys general did not see fit to avail themselves of the opportunity to get the truth—facts that their own advisers have never been in a position to gather. As defenders of the public welfare considering an engineering question, they were fortified by one general did not admit he knows nothing about sanitary or hydraulic engineering.

They did condescend to see our lawyers and our counsel talked with them and brought up the solution of the (Continued in Next Column) lake level, problem we are offering and have been offering and explaining the diversion, the restored. They told the attorneys general we would pay the charges and the matter could be settled without a cent's cost to Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Indiana, or any other states. Somehow, saving their own taxpayers considerable money and increasing the value of the lakes didn't seem to strike the responsive chord we expected.

The attorneys general ignored our offer of engineering facts, the crux of the situation. They issued statements after two days of talking, putting their states on record. Michigan joined with Wisconsin. Wisconsin has a suit before the United States Supreme Court to enjoin the Sanitary District from taking half our present water.

Minnesota seemed to think Wisconsin's cause a good one, but did not say whether they would enlist. Indiana remained comparatively neutral.

They went home then, taking their publicity agents with them. The Wisconsin representative felt so elated over his success with his comrades-in-law that he decided to call another conference. He is leaving for the East to visit the attorneys general of New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio and ask them to sit in at a seven-handed session to be held in Cleveland. This is all bunk. The scheme is to recruit enemies of Chicago. A doubtful cause is being advanced, sought, and the weight of their constituency, to join in Wisconsin's suit against a city upon which the complaining states depend for much of their wealth in commerce and industry.

The Facts About the Sanitary District. When the facts are laid out, the case could have proven for themselves had they desired to proceed in behalf of the public welfare? Upwards of a third of a century ago Chicago was a city subject to frequent epidemics, an unhealthy city, in its arms a stinking muck heap and the city fathers, who were discharging our sewage then into the river and the lake. The river flowed into the lake when not completely filled. Lake Michigan wore a black necklace of scum or undissolved sewage.

To protect its undermined health, Chicago rose to the sum and the city created the Sanitary District by legislative act in 1889. The State said, "We hereby create a public corporation to handle the sanitary requirements of Chicago and its environs."

In the ensuing ten years the District built the Drainage Canal, connecting the Chicago River at Robey Street with the Desplaines and Illinois rivers. Sewers discharging into the lake were pointed to the River and the Drainage Canal. Our lake shore from the far north to the far south was cleansed of effluent or sewage pollution. Chicago brightened up at once, another city and found it wholesome. The city began to thrive. The Government looked on, fondly beneficent.

When we began to take water, the level of Lake Michigan rose. As the city grew, we increased the amount we were taking. The lake rose still higher. The lakes have been rising and falling for years and still are from natural causes.

When we opened the Drainage Canal at the Chicago River, which is a part of the drainage system, had a depth of but 17 feet. Consequently, what was called an excessive current in the river when we began taking water. Because of that fact the War Department limited the permit we had then calling for 10,000 cubic feet per second, not because there was any objection to more water being taken, or because of any effect on the levels of Lake Michigan, but solely because of the excessive current which made navigation difficult. The War Department ruled that the current must be throttled to 14 miles per hour.

We overcame all objections by widening the channel of the river to its present depth, thus making it navigable. We removed obstructions in the river channel and straightened the river. In all we spent $13,000,000 in these improvements, which were of considerable benefit to the interests of surrounding states.

The War Department not only acquiesced in the program of deepening the channel and improving the river, but expressly authorized the improvement knowing its purpose, and that was the taking of more and needed water. But for some reason the War Department never removed the limitation even though the cause had been eliminated.

Hence this controversy today. Authority To Take Water. There came into existence the International Waterways Commission, composed of Canadians and members from the United States, officially appointed. On January 4, 1907, they submitted a joint report on the diversion of water through the Chicago Drainage Canal. They said, to quote their own words:

"The diversion of large bodies of water from Lake Michigan for supplying the Drainage Canal has not been authorized by Congress, but there appears to be a tacit general agreement that no objection will be made to the diversion of 10,000 cubic feet per second, as originally planned."

The Illinois statute under which we are operating had said we would require 1,000 cubic feet per second for each 300,000 population, or 10,000 cubic feet per second for a city of 3,000,000.

Later the Boundary Waters Treaty between the United States and Canada was written, in 1909, and ratified May 5, 1910. The American and Canadian sections of the International Commission considered the diversion of 10,000 cubic feet at Chicago a just diversion and it was considered in the formulation of the treaty. While no specific mention is made in the treaty of the Chicago Drainage (Continued in Next Column)

Canal, it is unquestionable that certain articles of the treaty authorize the diversion, the restored. The Hydraulic Engineer and Lake Level Expert, asks if it is reasonable to believe that the formulators, Secretary of State Elihu Root and Ambassador James Bryce, knowingly neglected to safeguard the public interest of the people of Illinois while "carefully safeguarding the private corporations of the State of New York and of the Province of Ontario." He does not think so.

By the express provisions of the treaty with Canada and by the terms of the Illinois statute, we are entitled to 10,000 cubic feet per second.

The War Department limitation, made twenty years ago to guard against an excessive current in the river which was immediately obviated by the Department's sanction by widening and deepening the river, calls for a smaller flow than we are now taking, which is, roughly 9,000 cubic feet per second. Notwithstanding the fact that we removed the cause of the Government's limitation, and did so under their express authorization, the District is called on by law by agitators who refuse to speak of the diversion as other than unlawful.

If we were suddenly throttled to 4,167 cubic feet per second, as Wisconsin says we should be, Chicago's sewage would be back in the lake as it was five or six years ago. The city would survive. Chicago became a great city and a great metropolis and grew apace because of proper sewage disposal. Our growth made a corresponding growth in surrounding markets, which must use Chicago as the outlet for their agricultural products, their goods and merchandise.

Chicago could not, would not, stand for a permanent sewage channel in the arms of the city. Yet that is what we would have if the radicals fighting the Sanitary District had their way.

In the light of what has gone before, in the light of uncontested diversion for many years, in the light of Chicago's needs, the Sanitary District can not and does not believe the agitators have just cause for complaint. We believe the War Department lacks jurisdiction and so contend when a friendly suit was long ago started in the federal courts to enjoin us, a suit still undecided.

Col. J. G. Warren of the United States corps of engineers undertook an exhaustive inquiry and submitted a report in 1921. He recommended, among other things:

That the Sanitary District of Chicago be permitted to divert from Lake Michigan and its tributaries a limited quantity of water not exceeding at any time a flow of 10,000 cubic feet per second.

We are now taking less than that and will guarantee not to take more. In the treaty between the United States and Canada it is provided that the taking of water for domestic and sanitary purposes shall have precedence in the use of water. Water is taken for domestic and sanitary purposes.

Water diverted here serves the purposes of the treaty by acting as a vehicle for the disposal of sewage and by making practicable a navigable waterway leading toward the Gulf of Mexico.

The Chicago River and the Drainage Canal connect an entire section of the proposed lakes-to-the-gulf waterway, to advance which the State of Illinois is spending $20,000,000 in the construction of locks at Marseilles and Starved Rock. The Waterway is designated to improve lake commerce and will aid states complaining about the Drainage Canal and others that are not.

What has been the effect of diverting water for sewage purposes at Chicago? Federal engineering experts have testified the effect has been to lower the level of the lakes about four inches. Just that, and nothing more.

Before the Drainage Canal was built the only outlet from Lakes Michigan and Huron was the St. Clair River, then having an outflow of 11,000,000 cubic feet per minute. Water taken at Chicago was gradually increased until 500,000 cubic feet per minute was being taken. In recent years this slightly lowered the lake levels. Finally there came a time some three years ago, when the taking of water here was without any effect on the lake levels, for the outflow from St. Clair River had diminished to 10,500,000 cubic feet per minute, and we were getting the outflow the St. Clair River had had before the Drainage Canal was placed in operation.

We could go on taking the amount we are now getting through eternity without affecting the present lake levels in the slightest. If we were to take our full 10,000 cubic feet per second, sanctioned by the treaty with Canada and authorized by Illinois statute, the lake levels would be lowered perhaps one more inch and the outflow through the St. Clair, Detroit, Niagara and St. Lawrence Rivers would be slightly diminished.

That outflow might well be lowered. Power interests at Niagara Falls have a market for only a small part of the power they can develop with the amount of water allotted to them. What We Propose—The Solution. Suppose we have scooped four inches off the reservoirs of Lakes Michigan and Huron as the federal experts have said. We can put those four inches back, and more. We can maintain a proper outflow through the St. Clair, Detroit, Niagara and St. Lawrence Rivers to the benefit of all communities as well as private interests.

We can put back the water we have taken with compensating or regulating works in those rivers. We offered to do so long ago and appropriated the money for the purpose and offered it to the government and said: (Continued in Next Column)

"Uncle Sam" you build them at our expense, then no one can complain about the type of works."

The best engineering brains of the country back up the assertion they will perform as we claim. There are several types of compensating and regulating works, all feasible, practicable. Consider one type, for illustration, the regulation works used at the international bridge connecting the American and Canadian Soo to hold water stored in Lake Superior and to keep the lake level more or less constant.

Yes, the government could build such works along the St. Clair, Niagara and St. Lawrence. A bridge could be built part way across the river, not wide enough to interfere with navigation. Gates could be installed under the bridge. When closed they would hold back water in the lakes, raise the "Uncle Sam" levels. In rainy seasons a surplus would be created for use in dry seasons.

As it is now, the surplus is not preserved, and the lakes suffer from lack of regulation. With compensating or regulating works the levels of all the lakes can be raised to a point higher than they were before the Drainage Canal at Chicago took any water from them. The common sense that complainants contend have been injured, although not by the Sanitary District but from the natural lowering of the lakes, would be restored everyone benefited.

The Square Deal. What more can anyone ask? We even say we will put up the money and we have the money ready, $2,500,000, and more if more is needed. Wouldn't it be the common sense thing for surrounding states to join with the Sanitary District in asking Congress to authorize the restoration, instead of making a political football of the problem?

The restoration of the lake levels can be accomplished in a brief interval. If litigation continues, if the states go on fighting, the fight will ruin the city with taxation. It is a conclusion, providing there ever is a conclusion, nothing will have been accomplished for the good of the Great Lakes States.

These lakes of ours are continually rising and falling, feeding as they do solely on the precipitation in the Great Lakes watershed, an area three times as large as the rest of the lakes themselves. Sometimes the levels are up, sometimes down. They have been down for several years. There have been numerous successive mild winters and none of the usual ice jams in the St. Clair River to hold water back in the reservoirs. As the lakes have lowered from natural causes, the misinformed agitation has grown in volume for citizens have said, not understanding what had happened, "See how low the lakes are. That's because they're taking all that water over in Chicago. Guess they want it for power."

We do make power, that's true. We produce electricity and sell it to light Chicago's streets, boulevards and parks at cost. We've saved the state and parks millions of dollars and the country great quantities of coal. But we only use waste water. We don't take a tumblerful that we don't require for sewage purposes.

We actually need more than we are taking, but we are supplementing sewage disposal by dilution with artificial treatment plants. Counting pollution from trade wastes, the District handles pollution from population approximately 5,000,000. It is constantly growing. Our artificial treatment program supplements disposal by dilution. It's a program calling for an expenditure of $100,000,000 in the next twenty years.

If the warfare now being waged on the District were to succeed, we'd have to commence at once an additional program of $130,000,000 to handle stagnated sewage. That would ruin the city with taxation. It would amount to a per capita tax of $50 on every man, woman and child. Business pays, and business in this instance would pay through the nose.

Compensating and regulating works to restore the lake levels, we think you will agree, is the only honest answer to all our troubles, and the troubles of others.

I'll put the question to you as business and professional men of Wisconsin: Isn't it your wish that the lake level controversy be settled on a common sense basis, on an economical basis, to the benefit of all concerned to the benefit of the taxpayers' pocketbook, not only in Illinois, but in Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Indiana in which you have an interest both as business men and as citizens?

Or shall the misguided people of Wisconsin, Michigan and other states prevail in a useless, expensive fight which, succeeding, would mean the downfall of Chicago and injury to the entire Middle West?

On the one hand Chicago has offered to pay the bill, although the bill is not wholly Chicago's, for there has been diversion of water other than there. On the other hand the taxpayers of all states concerned will pay. Chicago will pay double and suffer staggering damage in doing so.

We do not believe that the mass of citizens of Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota and Indiana wish to open their pocketbooks to pay the heavy expenses of a long drawn out legal battle before the United States Supreme Court, where Wisconsin now stands. We do not believe they want a blow struck at the Chicago market, which is a blow struck at their market. We do not believe they wish to be a party to a proposal that would eliminate the lakes-to-the-gulf waterway, making Chicago helpless, unhealthy, and destroying the hope of making this the world's greatest city.

MICHAEL SAVERS TALKS:

"As for me," my companion confessed, sipping his wine, "my position has never been so difficult as yours. I have run no risks like you. I have never stolen a penny in my life, or raised my hand in anger or strife against any of my fellow creatures."

"You have made a million or so by these who have," I reminded him. "It is a trifle, that," he declared. "Let us speak of yourself, my friend. You are in the prime of life. You have just brought off one of the finest coups which has ever been planned. A hundred and fifty thousand pounds to divide for the sale of these jewels, and not a single claw left behind! What is going to take the place of these things to you in life?"

I shrugged my shoulders, for indeed I had asked myself the same question. "There is plenty of amusement to be found," I answered. "That is all very well," he pointed out, "but if you destroy for yourself, as you say you have done, all the hundred and one means of escape which our ingenuity has evolved, you will have to step warily for the next few years."

"My disappearance," I replied, "will be your task. Today we divided the last installments of our recent profits—amounting, I think, to a little over two million francs. Half a million I have placed in this envelope. They will be yours in return for the service you are about to render me."

"It is a difficult matter, this, then, my friend," he asked anxiously. "On the contrary, it will give you very little trouble indeed," I assured him. "You have, I think, among your very useful connections, a friendly one with a certain French hospital."

"Your task, then, is simple," I explained. "In the bag which I left at your office yesterday are jewels, jewelry, papers and other trifles of apparent significance. The next unknown man who dies in the hospital, of my height and build, will be wearing these clothes, and will have in his possession the other trifles I have spoken of, which have been all carefully chosen to establish my identity. The authorities will notify the French and New York police, Scotland Yard and the press."

"And afterward?"

"There is no person breathing," I told him, "to whom I shall confide my plan. I am in no hurry. I think you will agree that for a certain length of time, I could move about Paris without fear of being recognized."

"It is, without doubt, true," my companion assented, leaning back in his place and studying me thoughtfully. "I passed you on the boulevard and here, in the entrance, without a single impulse of recognition. I do not know you even when you spoke to me. I tell you, Michael, my companion concluded with some enthusiasm, "that no artist upon the stage or off it, in our day, is such a master of human disguise as you."

"I will not attempt to say that you flatter me, Lefevre," I replied, "because, as a matter of fact, I believe that what you say is the truth. Very well, then, just as I am, I commence so much as may be left to me of the aftermath of life. Within a week I shall leave Paris. You may never see or hear of me again."

A fortnight later I read my ordinary notice in a dozen papers. The New York Herald devoted a column to me, and the Continental Daily Mail followed suit. The Times dismissed me with half a dozen lines of small print, which seemed unkind when one considered the quantity of free sensational material I had afforded them. The Daily Telegraph seemed to think that St. Jean de Luz was at fault, having allowed me to slip out of the world according to my own time and inclination. The Morning Post thought that society at large must breathe a sigh of relief at the passing away of one of the world's greatest criminals. Only one French paper reported a little incident which for a single moment brought the far madeness into my blood—madness, and a weakness of which I shall not speak. Some one in England, a woman, had wired to a Paris florist, and there were flowers sent to the hospital on the morning of the funeral, with no hypocritical message, but the name "Beatrice" on a card. Well, it was my choice.

JANET'S NARRATIVE:

It was chance which brought us to St. Jean de Luz, chance and Norman's desire to escape from the pandemonium of an overcrowded golf-course. We sat out on the veranda of the golf club on the late afternoon of our arrival, watching the pink and mauve outlines of the lower hills and the somber majesty of the snow-capped mountains beyond. I was conscious of a curious sense of tranquillity, inspired by the little, no doubt, by any surroundings. Norman, after a few words of appreciation, looked longingly at his golf clubs and suggested a game to the secretary, who had come out to welcome us.

"Sorry, but I've had two rounds already," the latter protested. "There's a man named Beaumont out there practicing. He's a Frenchman, but a thundering good player. Would you care about a round with him?"

"I should like a round with anyone," Norman declared enthusiastically.

The secretary strolled across to ward the man who was practicing, making shots onto the last green, a slim man with a slight but graceful stoop, silver-gray hair and clean-cut, weather-beaten features. He was dressed in tweed golf-clothes of English fashion, and was attended by his own manservant, who was carrying his clubs.

A few words of introduction were spoken, and we all made our way to the first tee. The Frenchman, discovering that Norman's handicap was the same as his own, insisted upon the latter taking the honor. Norman drove an average ball straight down the course, and then came the great moment. Monsieur Beaumont glanced curiously at his ball, handed his cap to his servant, swung his club and addressed the ball. I gave a little cry. Norman stood as though he were turned to stone. In that moment we had both recognized him. Unmoved, Michael drove straight and far up the course, and watched his ball for the length of its run. Afterward we three stood and looked at one another upon the tee. The secretary had disappeared in the clubhouse; the caddies had already started after the balls; we were practically alone.

"We thought that you were dead," I gasped.

Michael sighed.

"I took great pains to insure your thinking so," he declared. "It is my misfortune to have to run up against the two people who were bound to recognize me. Still, I have had a very pleasant four years."

"Is it so long?" I murmured, for Norman seemed still incapable of speech.

"Four years and a few months," Michael continued. "I have a charming little villa, a converted farmhouse—you can see it through the trees there, a delightful garden—my vines and carnations are famous; and there are a very few English flowers which I have not managed to grow. I play a round of golf whenever I feel like it, and when the wander-hunger comes, I vanish up there into the Pyrenees. Antoine, my servant, is a Basque and an accomplished mountaineer. Today I can follow him anywhere."

"What are we going to do about this?" Norman muttered.

"That remains with you," Michael replied.

We started to walk slowly toward where the two balls were lying almost side by side. I passed my arm through my husband's and looked into his face. It was obvious that he perfectly well realized the crisis with which he had to deal. During the last four years—wonderful years they had been—we had spent scarcely more than a month or two in London. We had traveled in Italy and Egypt, visited twice in the south of France, and the remainder of the time had been devoted to Greys Manor. I had my two babies to look after, and Norman his farms. The ties which had bound him to his old profession had naturally weakened; yet I knew now how his mind was working. Here, by his side, was a man whom he had agreed to bring to justice, a notorious criminal, a man who by every code of ethics and citizenship he ought promptly to denounce. And I knew that for some reason he hated the task almost as much as I hated it for him.

"Michael," he said, "you shall have your chance. You know my duty. You know that I am a man who generally tries to do it. Yet, to be candid, I have a conviction that your career as a criminal is over, and my personal inclination is to leave you alone. We will let Fate decide it. We are as nearly equal at this game as two men can be. Fate made you my partner this evening. I will play you this round for your liberty and my silence."

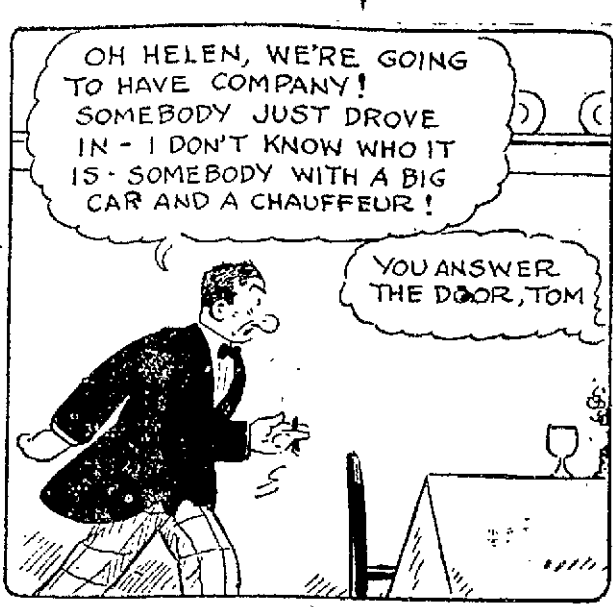

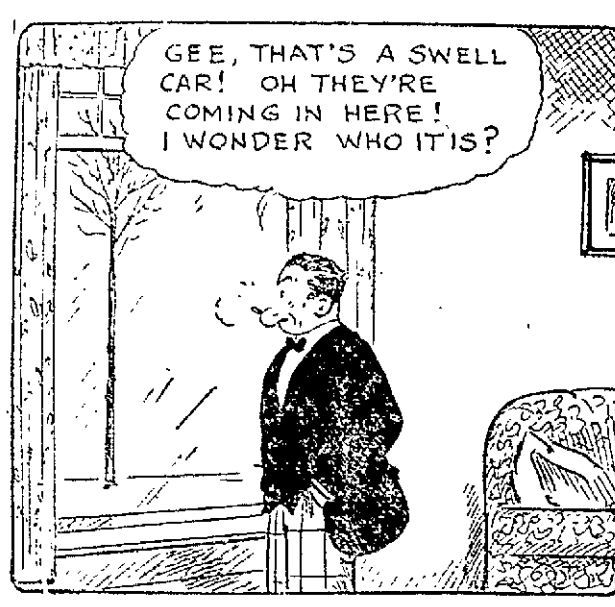

I saw Michael's eyes glitter, and I knew that the idea appealed to him. He looked toward the green and swung his club lightly backward and forward.

"Let us understand one another," he insisted. "If I win, I am free of you for the rest of my life. If I lose, I am to face the end."

WALLACE, WORK TO COOPERATE FOR COUNTRY'S GOOD

Agricultural and Interior Departments Will Stop Duplicate Effort

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington—The long feud between the departments of interior and agriculture famed by the Ballinger-Pinchot and the Wallace-Fall warfare has ended.

This feud, it was openly admitted, caused the retirement of Secretary of Interior Ballinger, and less openly admitted, the retirement of Secretary of Interior Fall.

But the hatchet has now been buried. Secretaries Wallace and Work are going to Alaska to work out together the Alaskan problems in which the two departments overlap. Two predecessors of Work left cabinets after conservationists in the department of agriculture had defeated them. Now Dr. Work, in a speech here the other night to the department of agriculture officials has explained his position.

"The two departments are accomplishing much by cooperation and have many working points of contact, so that certain duplications have heretofore appeared to be unavoidable, and many separations of now joined services would appear to warrant the re-allocation of departmental responsibilities proposed by President Harding to the sixty-seventh congress," said Secretary Work. "When the president speaks for the department of the interior, as he does in this instance, it is my pleasure to subscribe to his views. For more than two years he has considered, with mature judgment, a program which is designed to correlate the administration of governmental functions, and I quite approve those affecting the department of the interior. No student of economics will dispute the incalculable benefits to accrue through a logical re-allocation of government services. The interior department and the department of agriculture are units of a great government, not miniature governments in themselves, and therefore both departments are obligated to contribute through mutual cooperation to the successful administration of the government as a whole."

LOST MOTION
"The lost motion and time expenditure incident to duplication or overlapping do not make for intensive organization, the lack of which is a weakness of the government service. One department, should not be dependent on another for an incidental service because not prepared to do it alone. That service should be the responsibility of the department best equipped to render it."

"Related services should, generally speaking, be wholly in one department, and the line between interlocking services should be clearly defined so that equipment, employees, bureaus, and divisions of the government departments may not be duplicated. I am a believer in centralization of authority and of individual responsibility throughout the service."

"Incidentally, Dr. Work, in his speech criticized easterners who object to taking tax money raised in the east, to develop land in the west, unless it will be repaid, with interest, and taxable property thereby increased."

Wallace and Work are long time personal friends. They know the trend of one another's minds and there is little chance that they will be far apart in their conclusions bearing on the problems of the two departments, which are the two having to do with the nation's natural resources.

SURRENDER BUREAU
Work in his speech went as far as to say that many bureaus now in his department properly belong in the department of agriculture. No previous secretary of interior has been willing to surrender any bureaus. Dr. Work said there are more than 30 distinct points where the work of the agricultural and the interior departments touch.

"Reforestation is properly placed now in the department skilled in soil analysis, tree culture, parasite control, horticulture, and forest protection. Reforestation is forest reclamation," he continued. "The forests are nature's conservation agencies. They hold snowfall and rainfall, prevent soil erosion and destructive floods, but the border line between reforestation and forest preservation is too narrow for purposes of division."

"The reindeer of Alaska—150,000 in number—are a care of the interior department under the bureau of education, but their place in a teaching facility has not been determined. They properly belong in the department skilled in animal husbandry. The livestock of the Indians has its place in their livelihood and training as farmers, but its breeding up and its eradication of diseases are clearly within the confines of the agricultural department."

CAN'T DIM CRAZE FOR MELLOW MOON

Piece Still Holds Popular Sway In Sales Of Sheet Music

"Mellow Moon" has been the biggest hit again this last week in sheet music according to the reports made by the local music dealers on Friday. The piece became real popular last week for the first time and since then has been going strong. The next in popularity has been "You Tell Her—I Stutter" and has jumped into demand after a rather dull period in which it merely slipped along with a number of other selections. "Runnin' Wild" has also been a good number this week and "Falling" is still in demand. The biggest hits at each of the four music stores have been the following: Carroll's Music Shop: Farewell Blues, Apple Sauce, You Tell Her—I Stutter, Falling, Mellow Moon. Meyer-Seeger Music Co.: Mellow Moon, I'm Just a Little Blue, You Tell Her—I Stutter, Runnin' Wild, Red Moon. Irving's Zueke: Mellow Moon, You Tell Her—I Stutter, Farewell Blues, Wanita, Wet Yo' Thumb. Miss S. B. Anderson: Mothers Love, Birds in the Brook, Mellow Moon, Who Cares, Falling.

GIANTS AND CLEVELAND INDIANS LEAD LEAGUES

SPEAKER'S TRIBE GOING LIKE HOUSE AFIRE; LOSE NONE

Yanks Are Runners Up In American And Chicago Second In National League

Chicago—Major league baseball completed its first week Sunday, finding the New York Giants leading the National league with six games won and one lost, while Cleveland was on top for the Americans with five straight victories.

The Giants celebrated their second successive shutout over Brooklyn in which five errors by the Dodgers contributed to their downfall. Scott hurled a good game for the Giants and Frankie Frisch aided with his big gun with four singles out of five tries. Stengel connected with a circuit smash.

In the American, Cleveland shut out Ty Cobb's Tigers 1 to 0 in 10 innings and maintained a spotless record for five wins.

The Chicago Cubs won their fifth consecutive game in a heavy hitting contest from the St. Louis Cardinals. Blades of St. Louis made a home run. The Pittsburgh Pirates crushed the Cincinnati Reds in a free hitting affair. The Pirates scored two runs or more in each of the last four innings and the Reds were unable to stop the onslaught. Barnhart connected with a home run.

The Yankees lost their first game of the season to Washington and Walter Johnson, and had 50,000 customers in their new stadium. Babe Ruth went hitless and walked twice and an error by the Bambino contributed to the defeat. A squeeze play enabled the White Sox to win their first of the season at the expense of the St. Louis Browns. Willie Kamm, the $100,000 third baseman, helped the White Sox along with two singles.

Rube Benton made his debut Sunday at Cincinnati in the seventh inning but seemed to have nothing to speak of. He was hit hard and was yanked.

Max Carey, base stealer and batsman par excellence is going well with the Reds. Fonseca being out of the lineup, stricken with appendicitis.

Raymond Bressler is creditably playing the position at first base with the Reds. Fonseca being out of the lineup, stricken with appendicitis.

Home runs appeal strongly to the Cubs. Of the 30 circuit drives in the older league, the Cubs have made 12.

This Speaker's Cleveland Indians, not regarded highly before the season opened, are going like a house afire, the club having won its first five games. It leads the American League.

Kinks of the Links

A player on reaching his ball after the second shot, finds that a number of twigs blown from a nearby tree practically surround the ball. The ball is resting on a slight incline. The player stooped over and removed several twigs but in no way touched the ball. However, the moment the twigs were removed the ball rolled several inches from its original position. Is there a penalty for such action?

The player was within his rights in removing the twigs, they being regarded as loose impediments. However, if the ball moves after the removal of the twigs, the act is held responsible and the player penalized one stroke.

In playing from the tee, the ball strikes one of the electric grass cutters being used on the course, lodges itself therein, and is carried some distance before the fact became evident. What is the proper ruling?

PINK AND LEONARD MAY FIGHT MAY 28

Milwaukee—A conference between representatives of Benny Leonard and Pinky Mitchell, and a Chicago promoter for the closing of an agreement for a contest between the champion and the Milwaukee boy on May 28 will be held in Chicago on Monday afternoon. It was announced that Mitchell prefers to box Leonard for the lightweight title while Leonard favors battling for the junior welterweight crown.

TWO APPELTON MEN WIN CASH ON NEENAH ALLEYS

Neenah—A total of $247 will be distributed among two city Appleton and Kaukauna bowlers who participated in the annual intercity bowling tournament conducted by Harry Farnakes on the Valley Inn alleys, when the checks are put in the mails. Menasha bowlers, headed by Wallace Pierce, topped the greatest share of the money awards. Mr. Pierce alone receiving $71 for his efforts. He was in each of the first four places in the doubles. Appleton winners were William Groth and George Jimos.

To Lead Yale Pacific Coast League Hurler Signed To Pitch For Appleton Ball Club

"Nig" Lane, hurler of the Canadian league and recently from the Pacific Coast league, will be the other Appleton pitcher. Lane, a former teammate of Manager George Brautigan, when they both played in Canada, returned his signed contract to Appleton and will be in Appleton Friday, ready to participate in the practice Saturday and pitch in the exhibition game Sunday. L. E. Blackburn will probably start the fireworks.

In addition to signing Lane the Appleton club also annexed a player by the name of Wenzel. Wenzel is a catcher and was discovered during the practice Sunday afternoon on the Interlakes Athletic park. Wenzel is employed with the Combined Locks mill.

Due to the muddy ground practice Sunday was limited to batting. At least a dozen candidates showed up. Those who took part in the drill were Sylvester, Blackburn, Brautigan, Marty Lamers, Ned Smith, Eddie Kotal, Ruehlman, Basing, Fahlsstrom and Wenzel.

The next practice will be held in the State park.

CUBS TAKE FIFTH CONSECUTIVE GAME

Cards Lose Out In Ninth Before Crowd of 37,000 Fans

Chicago—Close to 37,000 persons, surpassing the crowd of opening day saw Chicago win its fifth consecutive game on Sunday by defeating St. Louis, 8 to 7. The crowd overflowed into the outfield, making a hit into this territory good only for two bases. After holding a safe margin over the visitors until the ninth Osborne weakened and was replaced by Kaufmann, St. Louis tying the score. Kaufmann's single, a passed ball and Grimes' hit gave the locals the winning run in the ninth. Sensational catches by Stutz and Blades were features.

Batteries: Deak, North, Wigington, Sherdel, and Clemons; Kaufmann, Osborne and Hartnett.

PIRATES IN SLUGGING TILT

Cincinnati—Pittsburgh won a slugfest match from the Cincinnati Reds on Sunday by a score of 15 to 9. Six pitchers were used, four by the home team and two by the visitors. Rixey was knocked out of the box in the second inning. Rube Benton made his first appearance in the seventh inning but pitched only one inning being hit hard. Morrison had to be taken out in the seventh in spite of having a long lead, and Babsy, formerly of Cleveland, finished the game.

Batteries: Bagby, Morrison and Gooch and Schmidt; Harris, Benton, Keck, Rixey and Wingo.

GIANTS BLANK DODGERS

Brooklyn—New York shut out Brooklyn for the second successive time on Sunday, 10 to 0. The Dodgers have now gone nineteen innings without scoring run. The Giants pounded Grimes for ten hits and seven runs and Smith for five hits and three runs, while the Dodgers were piling up errors. Stengel's three hits included a home run over the right field fence.

Batteries: Scott and Snyder; Schreiner, Smith, Grimes and DeBerry.

YANKEES LOSE FIRST BALL GAME

More Than 65,000 See Huggins Beating

New York—The New York American league champions suffered their first defeat of the season here on Sunday, losing to Washington, 4 to 3. Johnson held the Yankees in check until the eighth when he gave way to McGridge, the former New York left hander, who staved off Yankee rallies in the eighth and ninth innings. Shawkey, the New York pitcher, went strong until the seventh when he suddenly weakened and Washington won the game by scoring three runs on hits by Conroy, Ruel and Johnson, a muff by Ruth and two bases on balls. The attendance was estimated at over 65,000.

Batteries: Johnson, McGridge and Ruel; Hoyt, Penneck, Shawkey and Schang.

CLEVELAND BLANKS DETROIT

Cleveland—Cleveland defeated Detroit, 4 to 0 in ten innings here on Sunday and went into undisputed possession of first place. The game was a pitchers' battle between Coveleskie and Rip Collins, the Cleveland hurler allowing five hits, while the Detroiters gave only six. The game was filled with sensational playing, two great plays on balls hit off the wall by Summa, saving the game for the Indians, while Hellmuth prevented a Cleveland run by a great sprinting catch. Cleveland scored the only run in the tenth, when Coveleskie was hit with two out, Jamieson walked, Wamby hit to Jones, who threw wild to

LAWRENCE COLLEGE TO HAVE BASEBALL TEAM THIS SEASON

Practice Begins Tuesday—Games Already Arranged With Midwest Conference

Lawrence college will play baseball this season. A Blue and White week was tentatively formed last week and has already arranged for a number of games. The team will not play under the auspices of the Lawrence Athletic association but has the sanction of President Dr. Samuel Plantz.

The Blue and White expect to tackle most of the important members of the Little Five and Midwest conferences, rivals in basketball and baseball.

A meeting during which a captain will be selected and open positions filled has been called for Monday afternoon in Alexander gymnasium. The team will be coached by Harry Sylvester of the Appleton club of the Wisconsin State Baseball league and L. E. Blackburn, the Appleton pitcher, a brother of Lysle Blackburn, captain elect of the Lawrence football team. Sylvester is an old Lawrence "grad."

According to Myrtle Basing, one of the players and 1923 basketball captain the Lawrence nine will open its season on May 4 with Oshkosh normal. It is likely that on May 5 Ripon will be tackled. A five day itinerary has been arranged which will include Beloit, May 8; Knox college at Galesburg, Ill., May 9; Cornell at Mt. Vernon, May 10; Coe at Cedar Rapids, May 11 and Columbia at Dubuque, May 12.

BEGIN PRACTICE TUESDAY

The college nine will begin practice Tuesday on the Interlakes field. Carl Strenguth, former Milwaukee factory league hurler and Chester are the pitching candidates. Chester is a southpaw, Lysle Ruehlman is to do the receiving, "Jake" Ruehlman will cover the shortstop position; Edward Kotal, third base and Myrtle Basing second base. First base and outfield positions are still open.

GREEN BAY FIGHT CARD IS COMPLETE

Green Bay—Matchmaker Levitas of the Green Bay Boxing club has completed his card bouts for the fistio show which will be staged at Turner hall on Monday evening, April 30.

The card is headlined by Roy Conley and Jack Zwick. This encounter should be quite some battle as there is little love lost between the boys. Zwick hasn't liked some of the hot shots, sent in his direction by the Wichita Parson and he hopes to counteract the verbal blows with a new kind of attack when they get together in the ring.

In the semi windup, Young Church of Green Bay has been signed to mix with Johnny Stevens of Oshkosh. They will go 8 rounds at 137 pounds. Church wanted another crack at Jack Lang of the Sawdust City but Lang turned down all offers to fight here again.

The second scrap of the evening, a four round affair at 165 pounds, Eddie Stack of DePere is to swap punches with Irvin Johnson of Green Bay.

THE OPENING BOUT

The opening fracas will bring together Al Ponder and Louis Vanderbusch, a pair of Green Bay boys at 142 pounds. These boys are willing mixers and should furnish plenty of thrills for the crowd.

Otto Tonne will be the third man in the ring and Chay Schumacher is slated for duty at the timer's gong.

450 Wisconsin Coeds Enroll In Tennis Tourney

By Associated Press

Madison—450 university women will wield tennis rackets for their spring sport work, according to the registration figures given out by the women's physical education department. Swimming is next in popularity with 400 women enrolled in the classes. These classes always have full registration throughout all of the sport seasons. Dancing, the only other activity which is offered continuously throughout the entire year, has 125 in its classes.

Camp Randall will be utilized to full capacity by all of the women who have signed up for the sports offered there. Archery comes first with 154, baseball next with 125, and track trails with approximately 100 registered for the cinder path events.

Work has already started at the field and the 379 coeds are taking up their various sports there.

Culmination of all of this season's work will come on Women's Field day, which is to be held on Saturday, May 26.

Horseback riding has seventy enrolled in the different classes, which are being offered at almost all hours of the day. Early morning classes are filled, many of them meeting as early as 7 o'clock.

NUSS TO TACKLE CHOINSKI TONIGHT

Milwaukee—The Empress theater passes out of local pugilistic history Monday night. The building is to be torn down. Jimmy Nuss and Steve Choinski are scheduled to start, the wrecking with a ten rounder. Nuss moved back into the prominent division when he knocked out Frank Grace, but he will have a hard job doing the same to Stephen. Choinski has met Johnny Wilson, Jimmy Delaney and a flock of lesser lights, and was not rocked to sleep.

Steve has been working hard and is confident that he will hand the De Pere boy a setback, but Nuss is just as confident of stopping the southsider.

Two eight rounders also are scheduled. In these, Joe Sleaf, the new southside favorite takes on Jack Zalcie. This is the toughest opponent Sleaf has yet drawn, and if he can get by Jack, will be in line for some good match.

Justin Curran, St. Paul boy, who hold a ten round decision over Dago Joe Gans will tackle Tommy Neary in the other eight round scrap. Neary will make Curran show just what he's got in the way of ability. Tommy's vading in style will keep the St. Paul boy going. A four rounder between Larry Bark and Eddie Joers will open the show. Ray Burns will referee.
